PIECE ACCENTS · △440

The accents are cast on an independent slug which is placed immediately above the main slug requiring accented characters.

The characters are cut in the matrix the reverse of regular characters, so that the base of the accents is on the smooth side of the slug, no matter how large may be the body on which they are cast. By reversing the slug the accents are therefore brought close to the character on the main slug. It is not necessary to cast the accents on their own body; any mold body in the machine at the time may be used.
